OFFICER'S OBSERVATIONS

This occ relates to a DA breach of pre charge bail conditions. Suspect was arrested yesterday - occ 55230098162 relates - where by he had pushed his ex partner after a verbal DA earlier in the evening where she kicked him out of the house when she discovered he had cheated on her with her friend. Suspect has been given bail conditions not to contact her or attend the address save for once with police to collect his belongings. He was released from custody this evening and has attended the address and looked through the window so victim has called police. Officers have attended and spoken with the suspect, his first language is not English and he explained that he did not understand that he could not attend to collect his belongings. He collected his items and went on his way, he has the means to stay away from the address and as the original matter is going to the CPS slow time it was not proportionate for officers to arrest him for the breach due to custody time and the fact no violence or force was used, it was believed by the attending officers to be a genuine misunderstanding/language barrier. DASH PPN submitted for the victim using the same information as yesterdays PPN as nothing has changed there.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE/ABUSE (DASH - RISK IDENTIFICATION CHECKLIST)

Has the aggressor had a previous abusive relationship? Not known

He said that he was upstairs when he heard that the S was back inside the address. He heard a loud bang and went downstairs to see his mother crying. They then left the address. Officers attended and located the male where he was arrested for assault by beating and non-fatal strangulation. He was conveyed to Bournemouth Custody. Officers attended the V's address and have obtained an MG11. We have also completed another PPN and referred her to the NCDV.

SITUATION
 Report of a Verbal DA between both parties. Informant reports that she has ended her relationship with her partner due to believing that her partner had cheated on her. Informant reports that she has not allowed her partner back into the address and wanted some space. Informant states that her partner had returned to the address, knocked on the back door and was sat in the garden. Informant called POLICE because she panicked. Police to attend - identify offences, consider safeguarding and take positive action.

BACKGROUND
 This is the first reported DA between both parties. Female party known for DA in 2017 with unrelated person. Male party has been linked to DA related incident in 2018 with unrelated person resulting in his arrest for DA related common assault. Child located inside premises - 14 years - Present during the DA.

ACTION
 Officers have attended and engaged with both parties - Female located inside the premises and male located outside in garden. Female party stated that she believed that the male party had slept with her friend who was staying with them at the address. This was suspected and has caused the Female party to ask the male party to leave the address and give her space. After most of the day the male party has returned and has refused to leave the address. He has sat in the garden in an apparent attempt to "goad" her. Female party confirms 1) She has not been assaulted or threatened. 2) Male party has not damaged or threatened to damage property belonging to the Victim. 3) Both her and the male party are named on the address. The female party also disclosed that a while ago (possibly a year or more ago) the male had pushed her or kicked her in the stomach after she had hit him, but this was not reported. No other DA between the two since this incident. Male party stated that he has been in a relationship with the female party for approximately 3 years. In this time, he has moved into her property, and she has put him on the tenancy. He has sold his car and put money into the property. The male party described the female party as the most loving party but when she is withdrawing from alcohol, she becomes spiteful. The male party stated that he believes that the female party has a problem with alcohol, and she is seeking help through AA but has since disengaged. Male party suggested that verbal arguments are a regular occurrence, and he often leaves the property allowing her to calm down and when he returns, she usually calms down. On this occasion the male party has left the property for most of the day and has then returned. He has been unable to get in, being locked out, and decided to remain in the garden until Police arrived. Male disclosed that perhaps a year ago, maybe two years ago, the female party had hit her in the face but this was not reported and the Male party cant exactly remember when this was. No other DA other than verbal arguments.

RESULT
 Male party was spoken too and presented as reasonable. He stated that he didn't want to leave the property as it was his home, and he hadn't done anything wrong. However, understood the need to provide space and let the "dust" settle. Based on the informants account, as well as the male parties account, no offences were identified. This, in its most basic form, is a verbal only DA whereby the female party has essentially kicked the male party out of the address. Through reasoning, Male party was persuaded to leave the address for a period of time, and if he choses to return he is to engage with the female party and if this is not working, to withdraw and seek alternative accommodation. Female party stuck with her account, not disclosing any offences other than a verbal DA and wishing for the male party to "give her space" and to leave the address, which is also his home. Female party advised that male is leaving to allow female some space, advised to keep doors locked and if male returns to the address, not to engage with him and keep property secure. At this time, based on what has been said, there was no lawful power to prevent the male party from returning to the address. Female party took this on board and advised to speak to housing officer re housing options and male being on the tenancy if the relationship had ended. Both parties separated. Details taken re PPN. No immediate risks identified. Other than historic assault (1 or 2 years ago) amounting to common assault there were no other DA related incidents of concern. This is the first reported DA between both parties at this time. As such, based on the above, both parties separated and safe guarding advice provided to both with a view of avoiding escalation in the future. PPN to be submitted.

On SATURDAY 24th JUNE 2023 at 1900 hours DP were called to attend [REDACTED] Bournemouth LT officers attended, and it was resulted as a verbal DA with WOA given to both parties. Their OIC 1 is on log #1.

At approximately 2147 hours the V called Police again and reported that the S had re-entered the house and pushed her against a wall. This caused no injuries, he then walked upstairs and started having a shower. The V stated she is petrified of him and stated that she was going to head to Beaufort Community Centre to wait for officers. As a result, the FCC re-opened the original incident.

Officers attended and located the V and her son in the car park. The V stated that officers had been out earlier in the evening, and she was told to lock her doors so he could not gain entry. She said that 5 minutes after Police left the S sat in the garden just looking into the property. Then, whilst she was having a bath [REDACTED] told her that the S was back inside the property. She challenged him in the living room where he walked up to her, said "FUCK OFF" and pushed her with two hands against the door frame. The S then went to have a shower. [REDACTED] came downstairs and saw she was crying, they then both immediately left the property going to the car park.

During PPN questions the V also disclosed that around 3 months ago, during an argument the S lost his temper, and he grabbed her round the throat with one hand pushing her to the bed. She also disclosed that he has kicked her in the stomach previously, she thinks this was around 1 year ago. She could not provide any more details for either assault.

Officers spoke with Jakub who said that this had been on-going all day and that he was tired. He said that he was upstairs when he heard that the S was back inside the address. He heard a loud bang and went downstairs to see his mother crying. They then left the address.

Officers attended and located the male where he was arrested for assault by beating and non-fatal strangulation. He was conveyed to Bournemouth Custody. Officers attended the V's address and have obtained an MG11. We have also completed another PPN and referred her to the NCDV.

SUMMARY

This case relates to two 999 calls from the victim.

The victim, [REDACTED] has been in a relationship with the offender, Andrzej MAJEWSKI for the last 3 years and living together for just over two years. The property is a council owned premises for which the V was the only person on the tenancy agreement until six months ago when she added the S, and he subsequently built a summer house/office in the garden where he could run his business.

The Police were first requested to attend as the couple had had an argument after the victim found out the suspect had been sleeping with her best friend. The S had left the property earlier in the day, had now returned and was trying to get in, which the V didn't want. Officers attended and as no offences were disclosed at this time, gave both parties suitable WOA and advised the S to leave again, which he did.

A second call was received from the victim approximately an hour and a half later stating that the S had re-entered the house and had pushed the victim up against a wall.

Officers attended and the victim disclosed that whilst she was having a bath the suspect came into the house and when she challenged him, he used both hands to push her in the chest and against the door frame. She also stated that about three months ago he had put his hand round her throat and pushed her onto the bed in the spare room. This was originally unreported.

AVAILABLE EVIDENCE

CALL TO POLICE

This occurrence relates to two incidents reported on 999 by the Victim. I have not requested a copy of the recording and have not listened to it at this time. PC 1728 Dunstan has reviewed and transcribed both onto the OEL and I have read these.

HOUSE TO HOUSE ENQUIRIES

OIC has conducted enquiries at the neighbouring properties but received no reply.

INJURIES

None.

DEMEANOUR OF ALL INVOLVED

Suspect was calm and compliant, although did exclaim 'This is a bullshit allegation' after caution.

SCENE

Victim and suspect's home address

HISTORY

This is the first (& second) incident involving this couple to be reported to Police. The first was rated as a medium DA and the second was rated as high due to the disclosure of strangulation.

Both V and S have previous DA with former partners.

S was arrested in 2018 regarding an assault on his then partner. This resulted NFA as victim was not supporting. The S had kicked and dragged her to the floor by her hair after she pushed him. He claimed self-defence, but he inflicted a sustained attack upon her. He also claimed that there were unreported incidents whereby she had attacked him previously.

V last reported a DA incident with ex-husband in 2017 when they had both been drinking and had a verbal argument.

Neither has any previous convictions/reprimands/warnings or cautions.

WORKING STRATEGY

Consider available evidence and any evidence that could be obtained to establish whether prosecution is possible and to ensure the victim and suspect are safeguarded.

ASSESS THREAT, RISK, HARM and VULNERABILITY

THREAT

V states she is petrified of the S.

RISK

From the PPN submitted in relation to this incident:

HIGH RISK DA PPN

7 Ticks

Capability of offender

Adult male who has been found to be having an affair with V's best friend. S runs a business out of the summer house he has built in the garden. Known [REDACTED] - 1 previous arrest which was NFA.

To Victim - lives with S.

To Public - No risk identified

To DORSET POLICE officers - No risk identified

To DORSET POLICE Reputation - Low - Confidence of victim retained

HARM

No injuries received, but V states in the PPN that she is very frightened of S and fearful of what he might do.

VULNERABILITY

Personal factors - None are reported, although S states in interview that V goes on regular drink binges.

Situational factors - End of the relationship. They live in the same house and he runs his business from the summer house he built.

SAFEGUARDING

PPN submitted.

 Assessed as high risk.
 Victim is supportive of a prosecution and has provided a complaint statement.

EVIDENTIAL TEST

No witnesses at this time, son heard a bang and then saw his mum crying.
 No injuries therefore no photos.
 Suspect interviewed
 Suspect has stated the latest incident did not happen. He has no idea what V is on about regarding the strangulation.

DOMESTIC VIOLENCE PROTECTION NOTICE/ORDER

Not applicable at this stage as matter to be put to CPS for charging decision and male will be bailed with conditions.

ACTION

Positive action has already been taken in this case by:
 (1) arrest of suspect
 (2) submission of PPN which has been graded and shared appropriately.

* FOR STURROCK MOLESTATION PROCEEDINGS ONLY ****

OUTSTANDING ENQUIRIES

As the DA assault is a matter for CPS, advice must be sought.
 Considering MAJEWSKI's release from custody.
 As this is a DA matter and due to S's dependency on V for residence and access to his business, there is an increased risk of the suspect attempting to contact the victim.
 As such, I believe Bail with conditions is both necessary and proportionate.
 I have considered a location ban for the home address and this would be suitable as he has previously ignored Police advice to leave the property and not return by going back and climbing in through the bathroom window, knowing that the doors were locked and the V didn't want him there.
 Therefore, conditions proposed as follows:
 Not to contact directly or indirectly [redacted]
 Not to contact directly or indirectly [redacted] (Victim's son)
 Not to attend [redacted]

OIC to complete:
 [redacted]
 Obtain attending officers' statements
 Attempt H2H again at neighbouring properties
 CPS referral.

I came home 7/8pm and I realised both doors were closed. As it was still warm, I sat in garden and played music and smoked a cigarette. I saw her through the glass door, and saw she called someone. Next thing the police arrived and unlocked the door and were chatting with me. I explained about her rage and fury. The officer told me to take an hour cycling for her to calm down, so I did, and I went for a cycle for 45/50 minutes. I came home and the doors were all locked and the dog was outside, this was around 9pm. It was starting to get cold, and I have had the flu recently, so I started to not feel well. I saw the bathroom window was open and a ladder, so I used that to get back inside. [REDACTED] was playing his game with headphones on, so I did not disturb him. She was on the phone to her parents in the lounge, so I walked past her, and I went to kitchen. She got off the phone and started shouting at me, but I did not want to argue. She told me to leave the house and I said no I have the same rights to stay as she does. After that she said she will give me a lot of problems with the police on Monday, and I just said "WHATEVER". [REDACTED] came downstairs, and I have a good relationship with him, however after the police had been there earlier his mood was not ok, so I left him. I went upstairs and had a bath. When I got out, they had both gone and I saw the car had gone, so I locked the door and went to bed. Shortly after police arrived and arrested me. I think the problem is somewhere else. She started drinking when we first got together. When she stopped drinking was when we started arguing, but then the arguing stopped, and the honeymoon period started. But then the cycle will start again where she drinks for a week with a week of fury and then another week honeymoon. For the first few arguments I had no clue what was going on, and she used to lock me out. I had to sleep in the car or at work. Until November 2021 and it got physical. There was one incident where I got a broken nose, I decided we needed to do something; we do not have a normal relationship. I had learnt to deal with her fury and that was to leave her alone and it used to work. A week ago on Friday she invited her best friend [REDACTED] round after splitting with her partner, they both used to drink together, and I knew it was the beginning of the terror. I knew what to expect, but [REDACTED] did not understand when I was trying to explain this to her. [REDACTED] and I used to talk a lot as she was upset and heartbroken as [REDACTED] was just drinking and sleeping. I tried to give her some drinks to help her forget, and we did lots of laughing and joking. [REDACTED] got furious and started arguing with us. [REDACTED] did not know how to deal with her temper and argued back, which made it worse. [REDACTED] could not believe how calm I was when [REDACTED] was so angry, but this was usual, and I knew it would be over after a few days. [REDACTED] left Saturday morning and was not allowed back.

When you came back to the address, did you push [REDACTED]? I didn't touch her, I didn't even argue with her. We spoke for 2 minutes, and I noticed her fury was going up, so I decided to take a bath and came back downstairs, and she had already left.

Were any words spoken between you and [REDACTED]? I was calm with her and said I have my right to be here, and she told me she would give me a lot of problems with the police. I just left it and went to take a bath.

What does she mean by she 'will give you a lot of problems with the police'? I didn't know what she meant by that. She didn't say anymore other than that.

What was your state of mind during all of this? I'm used to it now. I'm so used to her getting so angry at me. I've learnt how to deal with her rage.

Refer to statement: I kept telling him "PLEASE JUST GO". ANDY said "FUCK OFF" before he pushed my chest with two hands causing my back to hit the doorframe. No, I don't even use words like that, I just said this is my house as much as it is yours and left it at that. It was a calm conversation from me.

Last night, [REDACTED] disclosed to officers that back in March / April time, during a moment of anger, you put your hands to her throat - explain. Nothing happened like that. There was no incident at all.

Refer to statement: "Put his hand to my throat and pushed me backwards, causing me to fall on the bed" He shook his head. This is not true, this is just imagination. We had one incident where it was 'proper fighting' and this was back in November 2021, I had a broken nose and a broken tooth, and I pushed her off me in this incident. I don't know if you have ever seen her before, but she goes to the gym and is so strong, she loves her fitness, how could she not defend herself from me?

"I fell back on to the bed from the force he grabbed me" I don't know what to say, this didn't happen. Since the November 2021 incident, there has been nothing physical.

I described the morning of the incident that V has described in her statement. You're stating you did not put your hands on her, but have you got any reflection of the morning she is talking about? There is no situation coming to mind for what she is talking about. I have no idea.

I summarised everything he had said and asked if he had anymore to add or clarify, he said no. I turned off the tape.

Incident log and OEL checked, infmt reporting her ex-partner has come to the address and is banging on the door trying to get in.

We then receive a further call to say police left 1.5 hours ago and husband was told to sleep in the garden and he had now re-entered the HA, pushed infmt against a wall and is now having a shower. No injuries.

On arrival it has been confirmed - Then, whilst she was having a bath [REDACTED] told her that the S was back inside the property. She challenged him in the living room where he walked up to her, said "FUCK OFF" and pushed her with two hands against the door frame. The S then went to have a shower. During FPN questions the V also disclosed that around 3 months ago, during an argument the S lost his temper, and he grabbed her round the throat with one hand pushing her to the bed. She also disclosed that he has kicked her in the stomach previously, she thinks this was around 1 year ago.

Male has confirmed - Male disclosed that perhaps a year ago, maybe two years ago, the female party had hit her in the face but this was not reported and the Male party can't exactly remember when this was.

This occ has been crimed as assault by beating but due to the infmt being grabbed around the throat with one hand previously, I have amended the crime stat to MFS as this is the principle crime.

I have created a further occ 55230099012 to record 1 x common assault for the male as the victim where he has confirmed he had been hit in the face previously by the female.

Log entry: [REDACTED] Victim states she had been in a verbal DA that evening and was advised she did not have to open the door to MAJEWSKI if he came back. She explained that he climbed into the upstairs window via a ladder, but she asked him to leave the property and had transferred him £600.00 to stay in a hotel for the night. Victim states that MAJEWSKI pushed her and said, "FUCK OFF". Victim cannot confirm whether MAJEWSKI had been drinking as he had been out all day. Victim states to officers that she does not feel safe. MAJEWSKI was added to the tenancy 6 months ago, and victim states that since he was added on the tenancy, he has become nasty. Apart from one previous incident and this incident, there hasn't been anything physical.

 PC 598 states that it is difficult as he is on the tenancy and is technically allowed to be there. But victim states that he does not pay for any bills, food etc.
 Officers ask victim to clarify details of the push she previously mentioned.
 Victim states that 5 minutes after officers had left the address, MAJEWSKI sat in the garden and waited for the opportunity to get into the house by the upstairs window. Victim then saw him downstairs and repeatedly asked him to stay away for the night, when MAJEWSKI shoved the victim against the wall, causing the victim to cry and feel unsafe.
 Victim confirms she would be happy to give a statement to officers.
 Victim gives all her details to officers and DASH PPN questions, where she confirms she is worried of violence from MAJEWSKI.
 During the PPN questions, victim discloses that on a previous incident, MAJEWSKI has grabbed her by the throat. Victim states she does not think it was intentional but he lost his temper.
 DASH PPN questions were continued.
 PC 598 confirms if she was happy to give a statement that MAJEWSKI would be arrested and victim states she would be happy with that.
 Officers wait for other officers to arrive to take the keys from victim to go back to her home address and deal with MAJEWSKI.

Concerned that if she saw him on the road then she would hurt him due to her rages. FOR USE IN NEWLY ESTABLISHED PROCEEDINGS ONLY I have now spoke with MAJEWSKI. Essentially, he is angry and annoyed that [REDACTED] reported him to the police and that he had conditions placed on him. He is frustrated because he states that [REDACTED] is still trying to contact him and wished to place a counter argument against her. MAJEWSKI didn't actually have anything to report. He stated some things happened in 2021 (broken phone and assault), but he didn't really want to talk about them. I asked him on multiple occasions what allegations he wished to make about [REDACTED] and his response was always concerns about what might happen in the future, not what has happened in the past. He confirmed that nothing had happened recently that he needed to talk to us about. He no longer lives with [REDACTED] and is staying in a rented room on [REDACTED] and stated there is no reason for them ever to speak to each other again or see each other. She has not harmed him or assaulted him. He did not talk about any harassment or stalking related incidents or criminal damage. He just wished to make us aware of his concerns moving forward. Concerns about her mental health and alcohol related things. He is concerned that she may be volatile towards him if they ever bumped in to each other in the street. MAJEWSKA came across on the phone that he just wanted to report [REDACTED] for something. Clearly frustrated at the situation he is in. But in the end did not have anything to report that she had done that he wished to make a statement about and was happy for this occurrence to be closed. WOA given in relation to reporting live incidents occurring now if she causes him issues or offends against him. [REDACTED] was spoken to over the phone and advised to not contact MAJEWSKA either as this is not appropriate seeing as he has conditions not to contact her. [REDACTED] appeared AIO on the phone, not intoxicated and was happy to talk to me. She confirmed that she had sent MAJEWSKA a couple text messages, in relation to 'work' questions, not expecting a reply but just to let him know something. She will now no longer do this. There is no need to communicate with him at all. [REDACTED] confirmed that there have been no issues since with MAJEWSKA and is moving on with her life. This was reported as MAJEWSKA wishing to make counter allegations against [REDACTED] but in fact was him just reporting his concerns about what 'might' happen in future. Please REVIEW

Counter allegation historic seems tit-for-tat male was recently arrested for assault on female party perhaps malicious however there is no recorded evidence or provided since, and it seems this comment was made just in case she may do anything in the future. As it is he has conditions not to contact her. PPN completed
